

Identify Concerns: The amount of time teens spend online is continuously increasing and the behavior of students online can have lifelong effects. Most need to work to improve their behavior. Guidelines for appropriate behavior online should be shared with all teens.

Set a Goal: Through Digital Stories for Change, I will make an impactful video that will hopefully spread knowledge to students on how to behave properly online. I will show this video to the 7-12 grades and that will impact at least 80 students.

Form a Plan:

Who: Sabra Schmidt

What: "Tweet others how you want to be tweeted" video

When: 12/6/18 - 1/31/19

Where: Medicine Valley Jr.-Sr. High School

How: In November I started creating my video by searching for statistics and coming up with ideas as to what my video was going to be about and how it would pertain to my school. I finalized this video on January 29th and my story board was finished on January 30th.

Cost: None

Resources: My school's technology department and staff will be needed to organize the playing of the video to each class.

Act: I started thinking about the content of my video in October 2018. The video was created in January and completed on January 29. The story board was completed on January 30th. The entire project was completed and uploaded by February 1st.

Follow Up: Creating this video was very fun and I learned a lot by putting it together. I have shown my video to my classmates and in the future I will show it to the rest of the students at Medicine Valley Jr.-Sr. High School. I hope my video makes everyone that watches it want to change their digital behavior and those around them for the better.
